

BEST AVAILABLE COPY

Characterization of clinical and environmental E. coli isolates from an integrated turkey operation

S. Altekruze¹, F. Elvinger², J. Eifert³,
D. Ward², C. DebRoy⁴, F.W. Pierson²,
N. Sriranganathan²

1. FDA, Center for Veterinary Medicine

2. Virginia-Maryland College of Veterinary Medicine 3. Virginia Tech, Department of Food Science

4. Pennsylvania State University, E. coli Reference Laboratory

Slide 1 of 43

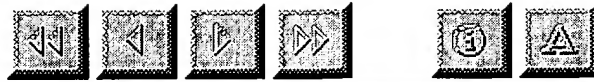

Biochemical phenotypes of clinical and fecal E. coli isolates from an integrated turkey operation

Slide 27 of 43

BEST AVAILABLE COPY

Conclusions

Avian Pathogenic E. coli

- Gentamicin and sulfamethoxazole resistance common among APEC strains
- These traits were not a useful marker for identifying APEC serogroups in fecal droppings
- Biochemical phenotypes of fecal and clinical strains were not similar

Slide 35 of 43